Services Overview

Litigation Services Corporation offers dynamic resources to help reduce the cost and complexity of the discovery process. Our services provide you with unprecedented access to paper based and electronic information. We create tailored solutions with a personal approach, including 24/7 access to both systems and staff. Our discovery related services include:

- Document Services
- Internet Depository
- Electronic Discovery
- Complex Case Management

Document Services

Spend less time managing your documents and more time preparing your case. Because the power of documents goes far beyond what is printed on the page, Litigation Services specializes in electronic document management, adding the value of today's technologies to the process of organizing and reviewing documents. Our services include a centralized paper depository, imaging, OCR and OWR, manual and auto-coding, image conversion, database creation and indexing. We use the most powerful document processing solutions available, including providing imbedded image review tools with our final work product.

Internet Depository

Complex litigation requires immediate access to information at a moment's notice. Our easy-to-use internet depository provides a secure, 24/7 centralized location for discovery documents and related information, creating significant cost savings for all parties. Our depository technology handles non-standard document and file types and allows multiple users to access the same documents simultaneously. Spare your firm the logistical nightmare of managing documents on site.

Electronic Discovery

Discover the power of your electronically stored information through the use of the best technologies available, powered by highly skilled personnel, without breaking the bank. Litigation Services provides customized onsite ESI acquisition, processing and production services. Our forensic experts are available to testify relating to the processes and systems involved in acquisition, adding legitimacy to the nature of the data in court, and explaining the process in terms understandable to the lay person.

Complex Case Management

Litigation Services manages the complexities of discovery for you. Our systems are built with complex litigation in mind, and our people are experienced in dealing with massive amounts of information. At the earliest stages we can help to evaluate your discovery needs, plan and allocate the resources that will provide the best solutions for you and your client and, ultimately, help you prepare to win. Our dedicated case managers are available throughout the entire life of your case, from discovery to decision.
